Training for library and IT skills

Library Services offer a wide range of training opportunities – both at the start of term and during your course. These will help you make the best use of library resources for your studies and research. Training topics include:

- Literature searching
- RefWorks & EndNote
- Open Access publishing
- Microsoft Office.

Research support

Choose your study zone

Three different study zones for a library space that suits you:

- Silent zone: Phone free, noise free, food free.
- Quiet zone: Quiet talking, quiet phone use, cold snacks.
- Discuss zone: Work together, phones allowed, cold snacks.

Lidded drinks welcome in all zones. No hot or smelly food in any zone.

Find your resources

You can discover both print and eresources (ebooks and ejournals) held at King's by searching the Library Catalogue library.kcl.ac.uk

You can also search for a wider range of material by using Library Search which enables you to find eresources from outside of King’s.

Find your resources

Library alerts

To keep informed on the status of your Library Services you can visit the Library Alerts web page www.kcl.ac.uk/library/help/alerts.aspx.

Library Alerts include:

- Closures of physical resources: Buildings or libraries, Library Enquiry desks, Compass desks.
- Unavailability of electronic resources: Eresources (such as databases, ejournals or ebooks), Library Catalogue.

Suggest a resource

The Partnership & Liaison team liaise with your lecturers to ensure you have the resources you require. If there is a resource we don’t have and you wish to suggest one or two resources for purchase please fill in the online form available at www.kcl.ac.uk/library/contact/Suggest-a-resource-form.aspx

Feedback hub

We value your feedback, please tell us your suggestions and comments to help us improve your libraries. www.kcl.ac.uk/library/feedback/feedback-hub.aspx
