If you’re an aspiring accountant, future financial planner or wannabe wealth management expert, find information, advice and jobs on AllAboutFinanceCareers.

E-financial careers
www.efinancialcareers.co.uk
E-financial careers is a network of careers information sites for the banking and financial markets.

Inside Careers: Banking & Securities
www.insidecareers.co.uk/banking Inside Careers has worked with The Securities and Investment Institute to put together information and resources on a career in banking and securities.

Targetjobs: City and Finance www.targetjobs.co.uk/finance
Includes information to help you learn about the sector, the work and find jobs. Includes: how to find work experience, key competencies required, salaries, types of work, working conditions, application processes, case studies and more.

Unofficial Guide to Banking www.unofficialguidetobanking.com
Basic overview of the banking industry, created by Deutsche Bank. Very useful for understanding the basics of what different jobs in the banking sector involve, and what different departments do.

Careers events
You can attend numerous events related to careers in finance (any many other sectors), both in King’s and within firms’ own offices. Find details of these on our site www.kcl.ac.uk/careers/events

Off Campus
Mainly occurring in the Autumn term and early Spring term these include:
Open Days (some are year-specific including for first years)
Presentations and networking evenings
Workshops
Listing: www.kcl.ac.uk/careers/events and also on our Facebook page.

Industry news and Commercial Awareness

The Economist
www.economist.com
Approachable, interesting and non-technical, The Economist is a very good read for anyone interested in careers in finance, economics, or business more generally. Look at the ‘subscribe’ section for substantial student discounts on the print & online version. Also available through King’s library electronic resources (login required if off-campus)

The Banker
www.thebanker.com
This is an online magazine published by The Financial Times.

www.ft.com
The Financial Times is published daily and is a leading reporter of the business and financial news alongside comment and features on current issues. It is quite a technical newspaper, and possibly not the best starting point for the novice (try CityAM and The Economist instead).

City AM
www.cityam.com
Lighter than the FT, CityAM is a free newspaper distributed outside train and tube stations in Central London (especially around the city).

Professional Associations

These are a great source of careers information and commercial awareness. They often have a student membership option, which allows you to attend events and network with industry professionals. It also looks very good on your CV to join one of these – demonstrating a real focus and commitment to the industry.

Association of Corporate Treasurers (ACT)
www.treasurers.org
The ACT is an international body for finance professionals working in treasury, risk and corporate finance.

British Bankers’ Association (BBA)
www.bba.org.uk

The BBA is an association for UK banks and financial services providers.

Building Societies Association (BSA)
www.bsa.org.uk
The BSA is the trade association for Building Societies. Every Building Society in the UK is a member of the BSA. The publications section provides access to news updates and research reports published by the BSA.

Consumer Credit Association UK
www.ccauk.org
The CCA represents businesses working in the home credit industry.

R3 - Association of Business Recovery Professionals
www.r3.org.uk
R3 is a professional body for specialists involved in insolvency and business recovery in the UK. Within the publications section you will find a downloadable booklet called ‘making a career as an insolvency practitioner’. This gives details about the profession, licensing and examinations.

Institute of Credit Management (ICM)
This institute is an organisation for credit management professionals. There is information on the qualifications and training the institute provides.
