What are the future prospects?
The majority of students remain within their sponsored Trust and work in all healthcare settings as a part of multidisciplinary teams. There are good opportunities for others to become specialist midwives in bereavement, HIV and Aids, substance misuse, female genital mutilation, breast feeding, aqua natal, high risk care and many other areas.

Midwives have an opportunity to work in different health care settings, and gain experience in all aspects of caring for mothers and babies. Midwives also have an option to develop their midwifery career in many different ways. It may be as a clinical specialist as a consultant midwife, or in management as a head of midwifery services, or supervisor of midwives at local authority level. Some prefer to pursue an academic career in education and research. Midwives have developed innovative specialist roles in ultrasound, foetal medicine, intensive care neonatal units, public health, parenting education and many others. There are also opportunities for midwives to work in the European Community, or overseas with Voluntary Service Overseas.

Working within the NHS & hospitals

NHS Careers
https://www.healthcareers.nhs.uk/explore-roles/midwifery/midwife
A comprehensive look at the sector from by far the biggest employer of midwives, featuring details about entry requirements and training, potential career paths and case studies. The website also links to NHS Jobs (https://www.jobs.nhs.uk) which is where you’ll be able to search for employment opportunities within the NHS.

Department of Health (DH)
www.dh.gov.uk

Nursing & Midwifery Council (NMC)
www.nmc-uk.org

Royal College of Midwives (RCM)
www.rcm.org.uk

College of Radiographers
www.sor.org

King’s College Hospital
www.kch.nhs.uk

MIDIRS
www.midirs.org
A midwifery information and resource service, with research information relating to childbirth.

Health visitor
Training as a health visitor involves taking a shortened degree or postgraduate course, which will lead to you becoming a registered specialist community public health nurse. This role involves working closely in a community to promote good health and prevent illness, often through educational programmes and home visits. You will usually need around two years’ experience as a qualified midwife or nurse (in any branch,) before you can begin an approved health visitor training programme and work as a health visitor. There is currently a recruitment drive, in order to recruit 4,200 more health visitors by 2015.

Courses are run on a one-year full-time or two years part-time basis, and are fully funded through the NHS. You can find your nearest course provider through the NHS’ health careers website (https://www.healthcareers.nhs.uk/explore-roles/public-health/health-visitor.)

Aid and charity

Voluntary Oversees Services
www.vso.org.uk
If you wish to travel or work abroad you may want to consider being a midwife for VOS. The roles are generally long term, ranging from one to two years, and they also have occasional short term assignments for up to six months. You will receive comprehensive financial, personal and professional support. If you apply to be a VSO midwife, you will be provided with extensive training prior to your placement.

International Midwife Association
www.midwifeassist.org
International Midwife Assistance (IMA) is a charitable, nonprofit, humanitarian organization. IMA is secular and non-political. Our mission is to raise the standard of maternal/infant care in areas experiencing crises in maternal/infant health. We place midwives and other healthcare professionals in hospitals, clinics and homes to provide care.

Working with humanitarian organisations
A guide for nurses, midwives and health care professionals.

The Prison Service
www.gov.uk/government/organisations/hm-prison-service/about/recruitment

Pregnant women
Every woman who is known to be pregnant will be consistently medically assessed and monitored, just as in the community. She may be located in a particular area of the prison dedicated to pregnant women if the prison in question has such a facility, and it is thought necessary for the wellbeing of the mother-to-be and the unborn child. Support will be provided according to individual need. Medical care is given by the local NHS maternity services and mothers give birth in a hospital with the appropriate facilities, local to the prison.

Mother and Baby Units
There are currently seven Mother and Baby Units. Two, New Hall and Holloway, keep babies with their mothers up to the age of 9 months, with a further six accommodating babies with their mothers up to the age of 18 months. Askham Grange is the only open prison with a Mother and Baby Unit. Each application for admission is assessed on an individual basis by a multi-disciplinary-team, whose focus will be the best interests of the child. Every women's prison has an appointed Mother and Baby Liaison Officer, who offers help and advice to applicants. Further information can be obtained from Prison Service Order 4801 Edition 3.

Self Employment

Self-employment is possible. University hospitals employ midwives in joint partnerships between the trust and the university to work in lecturer-practitioner positions, or to conduct research.

Look for self-employment opportunities at:

Health and Social Care in Northern Ireland - has a jobs section.

Midwives Jobs
NHS Jobs
NHS Scotland Recruitment
Nursing Times

Many recruitment agencies, such as Pulse, regularly handle vacancies and a searchable directory is available at Nursing Agencies List. Job vacancies, and information on becoming a midwife and making your application stand out, is available from Your Midwife Career.

Journals & publications

Nursing Times
www.nursingtimes.net
Nursing Standard
www.nursing-standard.co.uk
British Journal of Midwifery
http://www.britishjournalofmidwifery.com
Midwifery Today
www.midwiferytoday.com

What else can a midwife do?

• Antenatal and postnatal care
• Counselling
• Helping mothers & partners prepare for parenthood
• Senior practitioner roles; team or unit manager
• Managing other staff
• Teaching
• Become a consultant midwife
• Conduct Research
• Could move into neonatal nursing or health visiting

Professional development
As a newly qualified midwife, you'll be given a formal period of support under the guidance of an experienced professional colleague. They'll be on hand to offer advice and help in the first few months of professional practice.

Throughout your career, you'll need to maintain your registration with the NMC, which has to be renewed every three years. To do this you must show you've met revalidation requirements within that time. These include:

• 450 practice hours, which can be made up of providing direct care to patients, managing teams, teaching others or running a care service
• 35 hours of continuing professional development (CPD), including 20 hours of participatory learning
• five pieces of practice-related feedback
• five written reflective accounts
• reflective discussion
• health and character declaration
• professional indemnity arrangement.

CPD participatory learning must involve interaction with at least one other professional and can include attending conferences, workshops or relevant training courses and events. Find out more at NMC Revalidation.

There are opportunities to extend your role by taking specialist courses in areas such as enhanced midwifery practice, family planning, teaching in clinical practice, and research. Information on relevant events, courses and resources is available from The Royal College of Midwives. There are also opportunities for further study at degree, Masters and PhD level.

Search for postgraduate courses in midwifery.

Other useful sites
Not all of these sites are directly related to Midwifery and how to pursue a career within it. However, all of them have useful information about the sector, and many of them are particularly useful if you’re looking to pursue a career in an independent or alternative area of midwifery, such as water birthing.

Universities and Colleges Admissions Service (UCAS)
www.ucas.com
World Health Organisation (WHO)
www.who.int
Active Birth Centre
www.activebirthcentre.com
Offers support, information and products for pregnancy, active birth, waterbirth and postnatal care.
AIMS
www.aims.org.uk
Association for Improvements in the Maternity Services - support and information for women and midwives.

Association of Radical Midwives
www.midwifery.org.uk/
A comprehensive website for woman and midwives, helping to share information and skills and to empower midwives in their role of being the woman's advocate.

BirthChoiceUK
www.Birthchoiceuk.com
An information site, with the aim of enabling women to choose where to have their baby, as well as things to know during their pregnancy. Maternity statistics are also provided.

Doulas UK
www.doula.org.uk
A Doula is "an experienced woman who offers emotional and practical support to a woman (or couple) before, during and after childbirth." Doulas UK includes information on how to train and become a doula UK member.

Independent Midwives Association
www.independentmidwives.org.uk
Listings of independent midwives throughout the UK.

National Childbirth Trust (NCT)
www.nct.org.uk
Support for families ante- and post-natally.

The Good Birth Company
https://www.birthpoolinabox.co.uk
UK pool, breast pump and birthing ball hire.

UNICEF UK Baby Friendly Initiative
www.unicef.org.uk/BabyFriendly/
A site which works with the health services to improve practice so that parents are enabled and supported to make informed choices about how they feed and care for their babies.

King’s CareerConnect
www.kcl.ac.uk/careerconnect
King’s CareerConnect is our exclusive online career portal enabling students and recent alumni to engage with our services. Once logged in, you can access our vacancy board and search hundreds of part-time roles, placements, internships and graduate-level opportunities, book one-to-one careers or application guidance appointments, apply for exclusive King's Internships and view our full events calendar to book attendance at our many events throughout the year.

Updated: November 2018

Throughoutour website there are links to websites whose content is outside our control. The inclusion of links on these pages in no way constitutes a recommendation of the services or information provided. Please use your own judgement and be especially wary of any service which asks you to pay! Be cynical.

This material can be provided in alternate formats. Please discuss your requirements with a member of staff.

Our full policies on third party links and accessibility can be found on the "About Us" section of our website.